

Perspectives on

Creativity

Saturday, March 20, 2010

8:30 am

Holy Family University

Philadelphia, PA

What is creativity? What are the characteristics of creative individuals? What external influences (social, political, cultural, historical, religious) shape creativity and creative products? How does creativity develop in children? What is the relationship between creativity and mental health? What is the relationship between creativity and brain functioning?

“Perspectives on Creativity,” sponsored by Holy Family University, aims to bring together individuals from a wide array of disciplines, such as psychology, philosophy, theology, sociology, and the arts, to explore answers to these questions. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Mark Runco, senior editor of the Creativity Research Journal, Torrance Professor of Creative Studies, and the Director of the Torrance Center for Creativity & Talent Development at the University of Georgia.

For conference details, visit www.holyfamily.edu/sas/creativity.

If you have questions, contact Dr. Lynn DellaPietra

(Ldellapietra@holyfamily.edu, 267-341-3328).